1 Bitcoin / Project Development / IT pro needed for venture backed bitcoin startup on: October 11, 2011, 08:06:22 PM

Hello, sorry if there is another thread for this kind of post, but I couldn't find one. I'm looking for the best and brightest IT pro in the bitcoin community to be the lead developer in a venture backed bitcoin startup company. The ideal candidate would have at least several years of web application development experience, having built applications from the ground up. A solid understanding of oop and software architecture is a must. Experience in a start-up environment is a plus, or just being super hard working, self-motivated, and creative.

Compensation can be in the form of equity or a salary, or somewhere in-between.

If interested, please send your answers to the following questions to rossulbricht at gmail dot com

- 1) What are your qualifications for this position?
- 2) What interests you about bitcoin?

From there, we can talk about things like compensation and references and I can answer your questions as well. Thanks in advance to any interested parties. If anyone knows another good place to recruit, I am all ears.

i had an open buy at $1 and it got filled. made about $200k assuming bitcoins stay where they are around $10, crazy shit. Should I transfer my coins to an external wallet?

Holy jesus, so people did make out. Can you verify that these are legit bitcoins that you can move out to an external wallet?

moving them now...

edit: no wait, mt gox is limiting my daily withdrawal

I call bullshit.

well, I got 80 of 22k bitcoins out of my account 🙄 fingers crossed I can get the rest when the site comes back wow, they must not like money in general. they could've gotten many more dollars out in a controlled selloff

- 8 Economy / Marketplace / Re: call an end to the rally on: June 12, 2011, 03:24:27 AM well, the market is closer to my parity prediction than the previous high. Anybody wanna join my bear-camp? Still not too late! Btw I sold about 100 bitcoins at $31/btc, that felt good 😊

I already sent an email to garzik, but does anyone know more details about how Bitcoins will be regulated? Is it for sure that bitcoin exchangers will be considered msb's? Please post any developments along these lines, thanks.

This whole thread fails at Zeno's Paradox.

Needed money? The only thing that can be done when you don't have money is to create it?

Dammit I have better things to do than explain this.

you can borrow money

- 11 Economy / Economics / Re: Deflation and Bitcoin, the last word on this forum on: June 06, 2011, 04:14:59 PM

Forgive me if someone already made this point, but bitcoin is inflationary, not deflationary, according to the Austrian definition, right? Expanding money supply = inflation... I suppose this will change at 21 million, or when the rate of lost coins exceeds the rate of mined coins

And I seriously question whether anyone has sold Bitcoins in order to hold fiat currency.

I sold out at $8.5

Looking to buy back in at $1 after bitcoin has been made illegal and everyone thinks its doomed

Thanks 🙏

- 14 Bitcoin / Development & Technical Discussion / how exactly do the accounts work?? on: June 05, 2011, 06:28:34 AM so bitcoind has that cool account feature where you can group addresses under account names and such. My question is the following:

If I receive bitcoins at an address in account A, and then send bitcoins from account B using the "sendfrom" command, could it appear in the block chain that the sent coins came from account A?

In other words, do the accounts act like separate wallets, or are they just ways of organizing and labeling the addresses and bitcoins in the main wallet?

Let me know if I'm not making any sense and I'll try again. Thanks for any help you can provide, this is actually very important to help me track down some bitcoins 😊

I'll be smiling when I buy your bitcoins for a dollar, it's not too late to become a bear...

"call an end to the rally" turned out to be premature... again...

Third time's a charm 😊

ok, turned into a blow-off top. it's rare but happens...sell your bitcoins while you can, you won't see these prices again for many many months.

19 Economy / Marketplace / Re: call an end to the rally on: June 04, 2011, 04:16:23 PM almost $18, I'm crying on the inside ;(

I still maintain that we'll see parity again, though, or something close to it. This is a speculative market, and has gone through multi-month bear phases before.

20 Economy / Marketplace / Re: call an end to the rally on: June 02, 2011, 01:11:23 AM

ok, I was waaaaaay wrong with my last call, but I'm going for it again:

The top is immanent. An ending diagonal pattern has completed or is near completion. This is, in Elliott Wave parlance, the 5th wave of the 5 wave sequence that started back in October 2010. This entire move should be retraced with the most probable bottom coming in around 1 btc = $1.

I've liquidated all of my bitcoins and have $25k sitting in Mt. Gox with a 25k btc order at $1 per btc.

Once the rally renews from there, I can retire...wish me luck 😊
